Stevenson Assails Russia For Demands In U.N.

(UPI)—U.N. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson, in a Congo crisis Security Council meeting disrupted by a Negro near-riot, charged Russia last week with a "virtual declaration of war on the United Nations."

Stevenson said the Soviet demand for dismissal of Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld and termination within a month of the U.N. effort to pacify and stabilize the strife-torn Congo also was a declaration of war "on the principle of international action on behalf of peace."

Soviet Ambassador Valerian A. Zorin said he was disappointed in Stevenson's first major U.N. speech because it "contained nothing new." He pressed a Russian resolution which demanded sanctions against Belgium in the slaying of leftist Congolese leader Patrice Lumumba and the trial of anti-Lumumbist leaders Moise Tshombe and Maj. Gen. Joseph D. Mobutu, together with action against Hammarskjöld and the United Nations.

Screaming, fist-swinging Negroes burst into the Security Council chamber in the midst of Stevenson's speech. Eighteen guards, two photographers, and one of the demonstrators were injured before the public gallery was cleared and the U.N. buildings closed to the public for the rest of the day. Official sources in Washington said the demonstration was communist-inspired.

Stone-throwing, flag-burning demonstrations protesting the killing of Congo ex-Premier Patrice Lumumba were reported in France and several Latin American countries, but they were offset in part by growing support for U.N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld.

The Ethiopian government, Italy's normally "neutralist" left-wing Socialists, and newspapers in London and Paris expressed support for Hammarskjöld in his conflict with Russia over Congo policy.

Ethiopia's Emperor Haile Selassie said in a cable to the Secretary-General that the Security Council must take "all necessary measures" to avert a Congo civil war which could lead to "world catastrophe."

In Rome, Pietro Nenni's opposition socialist faction warned against Soviet intervention in the Congo, which had been threatened as an alternative to the present U.N. effort to pacify the chaotic African country.

Liberia proposed a 60-day general truce in the Congo while leaders of all the country's political factions come to the U.N. headquarters for peace talks with Secretary-General Hammarskjöld and the Security Council.

Liberian Ambassador George A. Padmore put before the Security Council the suggestion first made by President William Tubman of Liberia.

It included a proposal that the Security Council schedule a session in the Congo or in a nearby territory for a first-hand look at the situation.

Terror, Violence Sweep Congo; Kasavubu Supports U.N., Dag

(UPI)—New waves of terror and violence rolled across the Congo last week. Lumumbist youths attacked Roman Catholic missions and killed and mutilated a priest in Bukavu, a stronghold of Lumumbist forces in the north.

A United Nations spokesman said bands of youths protesting the death of Patrice Lumumba swarmed through the streets of Bukavu, capital of Kivu Province, sacked and burned a Roman Catholic mission, and attacked priests and nuns.

A group of Lumumba supporters in Stanleyville beat to death a man who had openly criticized his successor, Antoine Gizenga. Gangs of Lumumba youths roamed the African quarters of Leopoldville during the night, attacking supporters of President Joseph Kasavubu and hacking one man in two.

The local authorities imposed a curfew on the town and Nigerian U.N. troops and Congolese army troops began patrolling the city. Guards were set up at churches and hospitals.

The U.N. command was trying to persuade Katanga Provincial President Moise Tshombe to return the bodies of Lumumba and his two aides to their families for burial in hopes such a gesture might cool off the passionate reaction which their death aroused.

President Kasavubu, who has been cool to United Nations operations in the Congo, did an abrupt about-face and pledged his full support to Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld.

To show his power he sent a battalion of well-armed paratroopers swinging past the U.N. headquarters in Leopoldville. They marched in perfect step and wore immaculate jungle-green uniforms.

Kasavubu cabled Hammarskjöld. "At the moment when your person is being violently attacked by different countries we want to assure you again of our confidence and the wish of the legal government of the Congo to cooperate with you."

He hinted he would frown on any U.N. help for Gizenga.

But there seems no reason either for the United States or for the United Nations to repose any trust in Gizenga.

Segovia, Master Of Spanish Guitar, Featured In Artist Series Program

Andres Segovia, master of the classical Spanish guitar, will be featured in the fifth Artist Series program at 8:15 p.m. Thursday in the ballroom.

Marking the fifty-first anniversary of his first public appearance at the age of 14, Mr. Segovia is on an annual tour on which he plays almost 100 concerts in South America, Europe, and the United States.

Mr. Segovia is internationally known for re-establishing the guitar as a concert instrument, and is recognized as a leading interpreter of the music of classical composers such as Bach. Thirteen noted composers have written for him.

In his concert, he will include selections by Bach, Mendelssohn, and Haydn, and a group of Spanish compositions and works dedicated to him by modern composers including De Falla, Villa-Lobos, and Roussel.

After a recent Town Hall recital in New York, a critic said, "Such was the artistry of the master guitarist that he held the large audience so silent that the winding of a wrist-watch could be heard for rows around. He proved again that the fascination of sound lies not in its loudness but in its expressiveness."

Tickets for the Segovia recital are on sale at the information desk in the Union. Prices for the tickets are student tickets 25 cents, general reserve $2.25, and reserve $3. A limited number of tickets will be on sale the night of the performance.

MASTER OF GUITAR—Andres Segovia, master of the classical Spanish guitar, will be featured in Thursday's Artist Series program, to be presented at 8:15 p.m. in the ballroom. Tickets are on sale at the information desk in the Union. Student price is 25 cents, general reserved seats are $2.25, and reserved seats $3.

Curtain Going Up On 'Antigone,' Story Of Struggle For Human Dignity

"ANTIGONE" LASSES—Judi Elliott (bottom) and Celeste Ramey, two members of the "Antigone" cast, are shown rehearsing for the University's third major production, to be presented at 8:15 p.m. Thursday through Saturday.

One of the unusual features of the play is the mixture of costumes. The women will wear styles resembling the ancient Greeks, as are Miss Ramey and Miss Elliott here. The men will wear white ties and tails.

Tickets are now on sale at the business office on the second floor of the Administration Bldg. Prices are $1 for adults and 25 cents for children. Students will be admitted for 5 cents by showing their identification cards.

Nominating Committee Selects Officer Slate

David Crooks, Greg Gilmore, Joe McNamara, and Clark Tibbitts have been approved by the nominating committee as candidates for president of the Student Body.

The man receiving the second highest number of votes will be named vice president of the Student Body.

Candidates for secretary are Barbara Downey and Wanda Horlocker.

Student Body treasurer candidates are David Cayton, David Hunger, and Donald Treadway.

For the three seats on the Student Council for senior class members, the candidates are Richard Bradley, Tod Butler, Dean Shappell, Mary Jo Isch, Barbara Schulz, Judy Perry, and Helen Moles.

Running for the three junior class representatives to Council are Robert Dimling, Dale Rochman, Charles Eberly, Tom Short, Sandra Scott, Patricia Lewicki, and Diana Kellogg.

Positions Still Open For Student Council

Keith Trowbridge, president of the Student Body, announced that a nominating convention for class officers will be held Tuesday, Feb. 28.

"There are still three positions open on Student Council," Trowbridge said. "They will be filled by the class presidents."

"Many good people were nominated for Student Body positions who are not candidates, although the nominating committee chose the maximum number of people to run for each position," Trowbridge continued.

"There is a place for people who wish to participate in student government. Some of these people may be the next class officers. It is important that the best people be nominated and elected for these positions. The place to begin is at the nominating convention."

Elections for both Student Body officers and class officers will be held Thursday, March 16.

Students having the necessary qualifications for the offices were mailed interest forms, which they returned, indicating whether or not they wished to run. Other blanks were sent to residence hall counselors and people involved in student government. These were used as open nomination forms.

From these, the nominating committee picked the list of candidates above.

Khrushchev Refrains From Blaming U.S. For Crisis In Congo

MOSCOW (UPI)—Improved Soviet-American relations appear to remain Premier Nikita Khrushchev's main target despite the Congo crisis, diplomatic observers say.

In the current all-out campaign against United Nations Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld, the Soviet Press has studiously refrained from attaching direct blame on the United States for the Congo situation.

Observers point out that the present attitude contrasts sharply with that before the election of President John F. Kennedy, when Hammarskjöld invariably was smeared as an American stooge.

"Antigone," a Greek legend from 2400 B.C., will be re-told in the main auditorium Thursday, Friday, and Saturday evenings by members of the University Theatre.

This year's University's presentation marks the play's second appearance here.

Because it was the first play to be staged in Gate Theatre after the latter was built in 1950, it was hoped that "Antigone" could be the first play produced in the new theatre. However, since the new theatre is not complete, the play will be presented in the auditorium.

The play, believed to have been the most popular in ancient Greece, concerns a young woman's struggle for justice and human dignity.

Originally written by Sophocles, a renowned Greek writer, it was altered to fit indoor production techniques in the early 1940s by French playwright Jean Anouilh. In doing this, he modified the story line slightly, changing the emphasis and tone of the play.

Anouilh Fools Nazis With 1943 'Antigone'

"Antigone," rewritten in modern dress by Jean Anouilh, once was used as a political propaganda weapon. The story, which took place in occupied Paris in 1943, illustrates the ingenuity of Anouilh.

He was able to rewrite the story of Antigone with such skillful balancing of the plot between the simple girl, Antigone, and the tyrannical Creon, that it was passed by the German censors.

The Nazis idolized Creon, believing he acted out of political necessity. Anouilh had put into Creon's mouth words which satisfied them.

In reverse, however, the French people took the character of Antigone into their hearts. They saw in her a resistance to all things that are morally wrong.

Her plight became a symbol of the evils of pragmatism—a rallying cry. Her attitude inspired in them a spirit of perseverance. Much in the same manner that Antigone said "No" to Creon, the French said "No" to the German "New Order," which promised them eternal happiness for agreeing to surrender their spiritual independence.

The story opens as Antigone, a sensitive, sympathetic girl, finds that her brother recently has been killed in a bitter family war.

She is appalled to find that his body has been left to the vultures and dog packs outside the city of Thebes. This order was issued by her uncle Creon, who has ascended the throne of Thebes as a result of her brother's death.

Revolted by this godless, inhuman act, she attempts to give the body a decent burial. In doing so, she is caught by the tyrannical Creon. It is at this point that the play begins.

The outrage of allowing her brother's body to rot in the field is interpreted by Antigone as being an offense against God and all mankind.

She chooses to refuse Creon's offer—a happy life, provided that she does not interfere with anything that does not concern her material existence.

The play ends as the radical Creon returns to the palace, having witnessed the suicide of Antigone and her fiancé, Haemon, who is Creon's son.

Antigone's protests and her martyrdom have the effect of a revelation on the people of Thebes. As is always the case with martyrs, her revolt bears fruit only after her death.

Dr. F. Lee Miesle, associate professor of speech, who is directing the play, said its presentation here will include a number of innovations.

Because of its single setting, there will be no intermission.

The character Chorus is unique in that he serves as a moderator as well as participating in the dialogue.

Despite the fact that "Antigone" is an ancient Greek tragedy, it is being given modern overtones. There is free and liberal use of informal language. Reference to such things as night clubs and automobiles are frequently made.

To implement this, fundamentally formal dress is being used. The men wear white ties and tails. The soldiers and guards come off much in the manner of present-day Secret Service men.

The women will wear specially designed gowns resembling the styles of ancient Greek women.

The set is probably one of the most unusual theatrical devices ever used here. It is off-white in color and is distinctly designed along ultra-modern lines.

Increased effectiveness will be added to the set by a number of special lighting techniques.

Because of the unusual opening being used, Dr. Miesle has asked that the audience make a special effort to be seated early.

Curtain time is 8:15 p.m. sharp. Anyone not seated at that time will be held in the lobby until 8:25. This measure is being taken to insure that the opening scene is not interrupted.

Tickets are now on sale at the business office on the second floor of the Administration Bldg. Prices are $1 for adults and 25 cents for children. Students will be admitted for 5 cents by showing their identification cards.

The cast, which Dr. Miesle called one of the hardest working groups he has ever worked with, includes Ronald B. Van Lieu, Jim Rodgers Jr., Barry L. Allenbaugh, Louie E. Mattachione, Bob Dowdall, Rob J. Koontz, Carl J. Recktenwald, Byron Stone, Celeste M. Ramey, Judith A. Elliott, Patricia A. Maher, and Barbara J. Toth.

Six Lumumba Supporters Slain

UNITED NATIONS, NEW YORK — Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld informed the Security Council yesterday that six supporters of slain Patrice Lumumba were executed after being deported to Kasai Province.

CARACAS, VENEZUELA — A dissident army group attempted to seize control of the military academy and a radio station yesterday but President Romulo Bentancourt's government announced it had defeated the uprising.

For an hour the rebels broadcast from the station, claiming that the government had been overthrown.

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, CALIF.—Air Force scientists yesterday were preparing to try to recover one of two Discoverer satellites now chasing each other around the world every 97.8 minutes.

NEW YORK—Striking flight engineers stayed away from their jobs for the third straight day yesterday, making it almost certain that the five major airlines would begin furloughing about 60,000 employees across the United States.

Three of the airlines appeared ready to shut down entirely, and a fourth promised only "skeleton" service.

LEOPOLDVILLE — The United Nations yesterday announced that General Sean Mackeen would personally appeal to Congolese Major General Joseph Mobutu to halt his offensive against the Lumumbist stronghold of Stanleyville.

Rajewshwar Dayal, special U.N. representative in the Congo, told a news conference that Mackeen, Congo U.N. military commander, would meet with Mobutu "somewhere in the equatorial province" today.

WASHINGTON — Secretary of State Dean Rusk Monday summoned Soviet Ambassador Mikhail A. Menshikov to a late afternoon conference on Laos following news that the Soviet airlift to Laotian communists has stopped suddenly.

The halting of the Russian arms airlift was viewed as something of a mystery.

The Campus Is Being Invaded

When Were They Noticed?

They've already started.

Haven't You Seen?

The huge blue and white notices posted on every bulletin board,

The stampede to Jim Galloway's office,

The graduating seniors feverishly purchasing memberships in a few of the 201 clubs and organizations on campus?

Who Is Causing All This Excitement?

Hundreds of smiling men, armed with pencils and pads, are filling the offices of the Administration Bldg.; the annual migration has started.

Why Are They Here?

They are interviewers; each searching for the graduating senior with the correct combination of personality, scholarship, and extracurricular activities required to fill a particular job.

What Seems To Be The Problem?

The seniors know. Most of them are unprepared for the invasion. They realize now that scholarship, although important, is only part of an education. The applications ask for activities as well as grade average. The interviewer is looking for the versatile individual, the person who recognizes his responsibility of helping to preserve the institution of self government by students, the one with the administrative experience that can be gained through participation in student activities.

Where Can a Student Get Started?

Each housing unit on campus has its own governing organization. The Association of Women Students, Men's Inter-Residence Hall Council, Panhellenic Council, and Interfraternity Council are governing bodies operated exclusively by students.

In a few weeks the Student Orientation Board will interview for student leaders to serve next fall in freshman orientation.

Through the Union Activities Organization, students plan and administer Union and all-campus events.

The Student Leadership and Service Board will recommend students to serve on Student Court, University Boards, and committees by interviewing qualified students who express an interest in participating.

Elections will be held March 16 to determine Student Body officers, Council members, and class officers.

How many of you will be prepared for the invasion—this year, next year, and the year after?

—Clark D. Tibbits

Student Court Finds 6 Guilty

Student Court tried six cases Thursday, one for non-registration of a vehicle, one for improper display of a registration decal, and four for parking violations.

James C. Stoltz pleaded not guilty to a charge of non-registration of his car. The court found him guilty and fined him $25 but suspended $15 of the fine because Stoltz apparently misinterpreted the regulation which allows a student to have a non-registered vehicle on campus for 24 hours.

John R. Van Deursen was cited on two counts of improper display of his registration decal. He pleaded not guilty to both. The court, however, found him guilty of the first count, not guilty of the second, and fined him $1.

Thomas F. Muranko, John P. Talbot, and Stanley D. Rothardt were cited for parking violations. Muranko and Talbot were found not guilty. Rothardt pleaded not guilty to his second offense but the court found him guilty and fined him $3 and gave him a one-week suspension of driving privileges. Since it is necessary that Rothardt drive to Toledo twice a week to work, the court withdrew the driving suspension and fined him an additional $4.

John Brantingham was tried in absentia for his first parking violation and was fined $1.

Debaters Tie For 2nd In Contest At Harvard

Debating both sides of the topic, "Resolved: That There Should Be a Compulsory Health Insurance Program," David E. Miller and Michael E. Pheneger tied for second place at the Harvard University Invitational Debate Tournament Feb. 2 through 4.

Seventy-four colleges participated in the tournament. Bowling Green defeated Notre Dame, Rutgers, Boston College, Michigan Institute of Technology, and Northern Illinois, and lost to Bridgeport College, George Washington University, and Kings College.

Debaters Meet New Zealanders

Two University debaters will face a visiting team from New Zealand tomorrow on the topic, "Resolved: That Socialized Medicine Should Be Adopted by the United States." The debate, with the New Zealanders taking the affirmative, will be at 7:30 p.m. in the ballroom.

Dr. Raymond Yeager, director of forensics activities, announced that Michael E. Pheneger, and David E. Miller will represent Bowling Green.

Representing New Zealand will be James Larsen and Hector C. MacNeill. Moderator of the debate will be Dr. Brian Sutton-Smith, assistant professor of psychology and a native of New Zealand.

Pheneger, a senior, has been a University debater for four years. He is a member of Pi Kappa Delta forensics group, and Phi Alpha Theta, history honorary. Pheneger also writes a political affairs column for the B-G News and is a student assistant in the department of political science.

Miller is a special status student in the American studies program. A three-year debater, he is a member of Pi Kappa Delta.

Larsen has bachelor and law degrees from Victoria University in Wellington, New Zealand. He is studying accounting.

MacNeill has a master's degree from Victoria and currently is preparing for his law degree.

The Scene

Movie About Fort Lauderdale Doesn't Depict 'The Real Thing'

By Skip Ferderber

Having recently seen the picture, "Where The Boys Are," supposedly an authoritative (?) report on Ft. Lauderdale, The Scene finds it necessary to report on the REAL Ft. Lauderdale as seen through the eyes of a veteran beach bum who has taken part in the festivities south of the Mason-Dixon Line.

The first part of the picture opens with a young girl giving a diatribe on life and extracurricular activities in her all-girl school where she is in a class in marriage relations. Amid a flurry of fake snow and a howling blizzard, the likes of which Ohio never sees (hah!), this girl is proclaiming the joys of Ft. Lauderdale and how it is the neatest. The next shot shows four girls humming their way down to Florida in a car—happy, uncrowded, carefree. THIS IS NOT TRUE.

On my first trip down, there were five of us in a nice big car. For two long and miserable days, we traveled south, with hamburger wrappers, newspapers, maps, and orange peels crowding us off the seats and onto the floor of the car. In order to be comfortable on our ride down, we had to ride three in the front and two in the back. Thus is dispelled the first myth of this corrupting picture.

Ferderber

Then they come to lovely Florida with a hitch-hiker in tow. Pleasant, yes, but when has a guy been lucky enough to be picked up by four good-looking girls? It never happens except in the movies.

Dolores Hart, the young blonde version of June Allison (and Bela Lugosi), meets handsome George Peppard, who drives a white Imperial, has an uncle who has a fifty-foot Chris-Craft cabin cruiser, and a butler. He takes a girl out in the boat, piloting it himself, takes her to the finest spots in town, and wins her over with his smooth talk and much money. How phony can a picture get? If he had that much money, he'd hire a captain to pilot the boat. Realism in pictures was never at a lower ebb.

Then comes the corker. Connie Francis couldn't get a guy. Terrible. Here is a girl with charm, lots of fun, pretty cute, nice figure, and all she can find is a creep who plays jazz and wears three-inch thick glasses. Ridiculous. This girl is filthy rich with all the money she's hauling in from records. Who wouldn't take her out on the town and stick her with the check? Someone should check this picture for accuracy.

Other historical inaccuracies include these: not enough parties, the ignoring of those students who go down to Florida for the cultural things in life, (don't ask me what cultural things, just accept everything I say. You will accept, you will accept, you will accept, of course, the Limbo.

You ask about the Limbo. There was only one Limbo contest in the entire picture. Terrible. There are 24-hour Limbo contests for those who know where to find them. Ask me. I found lots of them.

Dear Ft. Lauderdale, how you have been misrepresented by the picture. Perhaps in some future day they will make a real picture about you.

Art Guild Plans New York Trip

The Art Guild of the University art department is organizing a trip to New York City during the spring vacation to give students an opportunity to visit museums and art galleries in the metropolitan New York area.

Accommodations in New York will be in the Taft Hotel for five nights at special student rates. Cost of the trip is $50, which includes travel, lodging, and insurance expenses. Food costs are not included.

The guild is sponsoring the trip for all interested students. They will leave Bowling Green at 8 a.m. Thursday, March 30. The trip will end Tuesday evening, April 4.

Reservations are limited to 34 students. Those interested should sign the sheet on the bulletin board in the foyer of the Art Bldg. Any additional information can be obtained from Carl Hall, instructor in art and faculty adviser to the guild.

Ohio U. Clinches Title With Win Over BG

They say history has a habit of repeating itself and this certainly may be true. For the second straight year Ohio University clinched the Mid-American Conference championship by downing Bowling Green at Athens.

But this year it was slightly different. Last year's game was a runaway, while Saturday night it took an all-out effort by the Bobcats to pull out a 74-72 win.

The game was in doubt until the final whistle. Lyle Pepin took the final shot for the Falcons with about three seconds left on the clock but it was off the mark and OU's Gary Bolen rebounded.

The contest was close throughout with the lead changing hands 10 times during the first half. Bowling Green, in fact, had the lead at halftime, 36-35, and also led by 67-64 before baskets by Bunk Adams and Dave Katz put the Bobcats ahead to stay.

Nate Thurmond continued his fine play as he connected for 24 points and pulled down 20 rebounds. Thurmond had 11 in the first half and 13 in the second.

BG had three others in double figures with captain Jim Routson hitting for 11 while Elijah Chatman and Bobby Dawson each contributed 10 to the Falcon total.

Bunk Adams, the Bobcats' all-time career scoring leader, was limited to just three free throws in the first half, but found the range in the second for 12 points.

The last few minutes packed plenty of action as BG attempted to get back in the game. Pepin fouled Bill Whaley with 43 seconds left. Whaley missed the free throw. Fourteen seconds later Nate Thurmond added a free throw, but missed on the second attempt. BG grabbed the rebound, however, and Routson fired it in to make the deficit two points at 74-72.

With six seconds left, Chatman and Adams were tied up and a jump ball was called at center court. Chatman tipped the ball to Pepin who drove down the floor for his unsuccessful last-ditch try.

Wrestlers Capture Show-Down Match With Come-From-Behind Win, 14-13

Wrestling Wrap-up

Coach's Strategy Goes Astray; Sommers Upsets Apple Cart

By Bob Hoover
Someone once said the best-laid plans of mice and men oft times go astray. Witness the utterings of Toledo wrestling coach Joe Scalzo after his squad dropped a one-point decision to the Falcons Saturday:

"We had planned on taking one pin by (Dick) Wilson and three decisions. But then along comes (Keith) Sommers and wins the match that we had been counting on. But we did lose to a good team today," the Rocket mentor said.

It was Sommers who grabbed off the important decision from Dan Apling, but Al Kebl also came through when the chips were down.

Coach Bruce Bellard, obviously happy after his team's victory, said about Kebl, "All we needed was a draw from him and he was up against a good boy. He certainly came through under extreme pressure."

We were pleased to see many Falcon rooters who made the trip to Toledo to cheer the team on. It seems that they cheered loudest when John Ruper was out on the mat. We wonder why. They also warmed up the atmosphere a bit when the referee failed to call what seemed to be a pin by Sommers late in the second period.

But, as Sommers said afterward, "I thought I had him down but then it's hard to tell when you're on top of your man." Of course, the referee was in the best position to see the action so...

The wrestlers before their matches were quiet, pensive, and seemed well aware of the hard task ahead of them. Kebl said, "We were really up for this one."

I don't know exactly what it is, but the boys seem to take great delight in beating TU."

Is BG as good a wrestling team as in previous years? One of their most avid supporters, Coach Bellard, seems to think so:

"I'd say that on any given day we could beat any team in the state — and that includes Ohio State. We didn't wrestle our best today but it was the best one we've won all year."

SAE Upsets PiKA In Fraternity Play

Sigma Chi took over first place in the fraternity basketball A league as Pi Kappa Alpha suffered its first defeat of the season at the hands of Sigma Alpha Epsilon, 28-27. Sigma Chi, idle during the last week due to rush activities, is on top of the 17-team circuit with a 5-0 record. PiKA is a close second with a 7-1 log.

Many games were rescheduled due to rush but in the contests that were played, Theta Chi edged Phi Delta Theta 27-25 in double overtime and Kappa Sigma defeated Tau Kappa Epsilon 34-26. Alpha Tau Omega picked up two victories on forfeits from Beta Gamma and Delta Tau Delta.

Alpha Phi Alpha is now in third place with a 4-1 mark, while ATO is fourth at 6-2. A three-way tie for fifth exists between Kappa Sigma, SAE, and Theta Chi, each with 5-2 marks.

The rest of the standings include: TKE, 4-3; Phi Kappa Tau, 3-3; Phi Delta Theta, 3-4; Phi Kappa Psi, 2-4; Beta Gamma, 2-5; Delta Upsilon, 1-5; Delta Tau Delta, 1-6; and Sigma Phi Epsilon and Zeta Beta Tau, 0-6.

By Dave Young
Coach Bruce Bellard's wrestlers Saturday accomplished a feat that no team had ever achieved before—defeating Toledo three years in a row. The Falcons had to come from behind and then hold on for a draw in the final match to nip the Rockets 14-13 at the Toledo Field House.

Going into Saturday's show-down match the Falcons had won six matches while dropping only one. The Rockets had a 5-1 mark.

Toledo's 123-pound Olympic wrestler, Dick Wilson, put the Rockets into an early 5-0 lead by pinning Tim Kerlin in 1:45 of the second period. In the three years Wilson has wrestled against Bowling Green only Jim Staggs has avoided a pin at his hands.

Staggs, wrestling in the 130-pound class, eked out a 3-2 decision over Dave Apling. In the first three-minute period Staggs picked up two points on a takedown, but Apling countered with one-point escapes in both the first and second periods. With 2:51 remaining in the final period, Staggs maneuvered an escape to give him the margin of victory. After two of the eight matches, Toledo held a 5-3 lead.

In the 137-pound division, George Letzner and Dave Drake battled for two scoreless periods. But an escape and a takedown in the third period gave Drake a 3-1 decision. Letzner managed to avoid a shutout with an escape in the final four seconds. The win for Toledo gave the Rockets an 8-3 lead.

Bowling Green's hopes of achieving a pin in the 147-pound class were set back when Pat Rellly fought on almost even terms with Jim Hoppel. After a scoreless first period, Hoppel jumped into a three-point lead with an escape and a takedown in the second period. Rellly managed an escape early in the final period, but Hoppel held on for a 3-1 decision. Hoppel's win narrowed Toledo's margin to 8-6.

A takedown and a reversal gave Chuck Holton a 4-0 decision over Pat Rosselli in the 157-pound division. The win for Toledo pushed it five points into the lead, 11-6.

In the 167-pound class John Ruper and Tom Spaulding wrestled on even terms for the first two periods before Ruper gained a two-point reversal with 2:06 in the final period to take the decision 2-0. Toledo's five-point lead had now been cut to just two points, 11-9.

Up to this point the match had gone as expected.

Going into the 177-pound match Toledo needed a decision to assure it a tie, or a pin to give it the match. Dan Apling brought the Toledo fans to their feet when he scored a two-point takedown in 2:34 of the first period. However, Keith Sommers countered with a reversal at 1:07 of the same period.

In the second period Sommers set Bowling Green fans howling with a takedown and a near pin to give him a decisive 7-2 decision. Many observers felt he should have received credit for a pin, but the referee disallowed it. Sommers' win moved Bowling Green ahead for the first time in the match, 12-11.

The stage was set for the final and all-important heavyweight match. In the last three BG-TU matches the outcome has hinged on the last bout. Toledo needed a win, while Bowling Green needed only a draw to emerge the victor.

The first period ended without either wrestler scoring a point. Harvey Bowles, who previously had been undefeated, picked up one point for Toledo at 2:44 of the second period when he scored on an escape. But Al Kebl came through in the clutch to knot the score at one-all with an escape in the final period. The bout ended in a draw, giving each team two points and Bowling Green a 14-13 victory.

Nate Thurmond won all-City and honorable mention all-Ohio honors at Akron Central.

Tankers Win 7th Straight Meet, Defeat Golden Flashes, 60-34

Winning seven of 11 events and placing second in six events, the Bowling Green varsity swimming team defeated Kent State last Saturday, 60-34, at Kent. It was a completely successful evening for the Falcons as the BG yearlings won the last event in their meet with the Kent State frosh to take their meet, 35-34.

A weak Kent State squad was no match for the Falcon varsity as they won their seventh straight meet and eighth of 10 dual meets. Although there were no double winners for Bowling Green, overall strength in second and third places were among the chief reasons for the win.

BG's 400-yard medley team won the first event of the meet in a new Kent State pool record time of 4:03.4. Howard Comstock, Paul Vogel, Ron Cochrell, and Gary LaPrise did the honors for the Falcons.

Other winners for Bowling Green were Hank Reest, 220-yard freestyle; Ralph Weibel, diving; Hal Henning, 100-yard freestyle; LaPrise, 440-yard freestyle; and the 400-yard freestyle relay team consisting of Walsh, Franz Faulley, Reest, and Henning.

Falcon Coach Sam Cooper was satisfied with the way the boys swam and was pleased at the swimming of Henning and Cochrell.

The freshman meet was close the entire way as BG eked out a close win. Going into the last event the Falcon yearlings were trailing and needed the final event to win. Richard Pixley was outstanding as he set a Bowling Green freshman record in the 200-yard breaststroke event in 2:31.0. This time was better than the winning time in the same event in the varsity meet.

Bowling Green plays host to a tough team from Cincinnati tomorrow night in the Natatorium. The freshman meet will start at 6:30 p.m. and the varsity meet at 7.

Casting has been completed for a bill of three one-act plays, to be presented at 7:30 p.m. Friday, March 3, in Gate Theatre, announced Dr. F. Lee Miesle, associate professor of speech.

The program, under the direction of students in the speech department, offers a variety in style and moods.

The first play, "Which Is The Way To Boston," is a fantasy dealing with death and supernatural occurrences.

Mary K. Tingley, Thomas C. Parker, Elke J. Krajewski, and Dennis C. Mitchell make up the cast. The play will be directed by Judy L. Brock.

"The Maker of Dreams," the second play, is described as a harlequinade comedy. It is focused on a lover's quarrel and how the lovers are brought together again.

The cast includes Wendy L. Blakeley, Anthony G. Lanza, and Fred F. Skelton. It will be under the direction of Ronald G. Sherer.

The third production of the evening is called "Smoke Screen," and revolves around the unique methods employed by a young detective in solving a murder case.

Joel A. Lieber, Terry L. Eberly, and Rosemary S. Gregg make up the cast. Directing this offering will be Barbara G. Uhl.

Try-out dates for the second bill of one-acts, to be presented Friday, March 17, will be announced later.

Marriage Talk Slated Thursday

Dr. Samuel H. Lowrie, professor of sociology, will continue the current UCF series of classes on "The Christian Approach to Marriage," at 3:30 p.m. Thursday in the Taft Room of the Union.

Dr. Lowrie's topic will be "Solving Family Problems."

Within the next few weeks Dr. William S. Rothe, a Bowling Green physician, will discuss "The Physical Aspects of Marriage." Other topics to be presented in the short course include: "The Meaning and Purpose of the Wedding Ceremony" (Protestant vows and Catholic vows, and religious ceremony versus civil ceremony); "Inter-faith Marriage" (Protestant, Roman Catholic, Jewish and non-Jewish); "Inter-racial Marriage," and "The Christian Church and Divorce."

The Rev. M. Eugene Davis, director of the United Christian Fellowship, also will participate. This informal non-credit class will meet every Thursday through March 23. There is no fee for this course and it is open to all students. Although the course has already started, students may come any time, and attend only those classes which they desire, even though they may not have attended the previous classes.

Here's A Chance To Go To Africa

Openings for June graduates from the Colleges of Education and Liberal Arts are available in a program to supply secondary school teachers for East Africa.

The program, which will expand the secondary schools in that country, is being operated in the United States by the Teachers College, Columbia University.

The "American Teachers for East Africa" program is the result of a conference held last December at Princeton, N.J. Participants were representatives from the governments of Kenya, Tanganyika, Uganda, Zanzibar, the United Kingdom, and the U.S.

Students being accepted for the program will undergo special training at Columbia University and in East Africa. Students selected will be assigned to a two-year teaching term in East Africa. Additional information on the program can be obtained at the placement office, 315B Administration Bldg.

12 Home Economics Students Aid Nursery School Instructor

Mrs. Elizabeth White, head of the nursery school located in Gate Theatre, will be assisted by 15 coeds from the University this semester.

Two student teachers will help Mrs. White daily with the 26 children now enrolled at the nursery school.

Harriet L. Rosnagle and Elaine L. Doan are student teaching. Miss Rosnagle will work with the pupils in the morning and Miss Doan in the afternoon.

Home economics students also assisting include Madelon Mitchell, Margaret E. Jenny, Sara Jean Wills, Joyce M. Marcell, Pat Bidwell, Caroline K. Kiger, Betsy B. Bell, Karen Kay Creamean, Arlene M. Pozar, Nancy Thomas, Mrs. Janice Haas, and Lynda L. Linet. For course credit, these students work in the nursery one morning and one afternoon a week and attend a seminar that relates to their work with the children.

Some projects conducted in the nursery by former home economics students are explaining sound waves, making marionettes and puppets, explaining the difference between regular corn and pop corn, and leading the children in games that will provide both entertainment and a method of muscle building.

Mrs. Marilyn M. Mulligan, another student, is doing her junior experience work one morning a week. This consists of observing classroom procedure in preparation for student teaching.

The pupils are children of faculty members and professional people.

B-G News Seeks Best-Dressed Girl For National Contest

The B-G News staff is sponsoring its third annual "Best-Dressed Girl" contest at 6:30 p.m. Thursday, March 9, in the Carnation Room of the Union.

One candidate from each sorority and women's residence hall will be eligible to compete. The women will model on-campus, off-campus, and party clothes.

This local contest is being sponsored in conjunction with Glamour Magazine's national "Ten Best-Dressed Girls in America" contest. The winner of the local contest will be entered in the national contest.

The 10 winners of the national contest will receive all-expenses paid trips to New York in June.

Names of all nominees must be turned in to Ann Scherry at the B-G News office by Monday. There will be a rehearsal prior to the contest.

IM Tourney Opens

A men's intramural all-campus doubles ping pong tournament is scheduled to get under way Monday, Feb. 27. Entries for the single elimination tourney are due tomorrow. Entry blanks can be obtained in the Men's Gym, Natatorium, dormitory and fraternity houses.

Faculty To Appear In Concert Sunday

The department of music will present the semester's second concert of the semester in the Faculty Concert Series in the recital hall, Hall of Music at 8:15 p.m., Sunday.

The concert will feature a program of faculty chamber music consisting of selected works by Mozart, Stravinsky, Ravel, and Dohnanyi. The music will be performed by seven members of the music department faculty.

The opening work on the program will be the "Duo in G Major, K. 423," by Mozart, to be played by violinists William D. Alexander, assistant professor of music, and Bernard Linden, instructor in music. The suite from "L'Histoire du Soldat" by Stravinsky will be performed by violinist Paul Makara and pianist Herbert Chatsky, both instructors in music.

Baritone Robert W. Hohn, assistant professor of music, and pianist Robert L. Chapman, instructor in music, will perform Ravel's "Don Quichotte A Dulcinee." Mr. Makara, Mr. Linden, and cellist Seymour L. Benstock, assistant professor of music, will conclude the concert with "Serenade in C Major, Opus 10," by Dohnanyi.

Mr. Linden will present the next Faculty Concert Series program Sunday, March 5.

Edman To Discuss Russian Education

"Is Russian Education A Threat?" will be the topic of Dr. Marion Edman's speech at the College of Education's meeting tomorrow at 4:30 p.m. in the Alumni Room of the Union. The meeting is also open to all University faculty members.

Dr. Edman, professor of education at Wayne State University, has traveled widely in Europe and Asia and speaks a number of languages fluently. She toured the U.S.S.R. during the summer of 1958.

Dr. Edman has worked with the Bureau for Intercultural Education, helping with the development of programs in inter-group understanding and cooperation; with the Office of Military Government in Bavaria, working on reorientation programs; and has served as a consultant in teacher education in Lebanon and Vietnam.

ONCE UPON . . . Members of the cast of "Once Upon A Clothesline," none of them "humans," are shown in a scene from the production. The children's play was presented Friday and Saturday nights in Gate Theatre.

'Once Upon A Clothesline' Earns Approval Of Children, Reviewer

By Skip Ferderber

Children inhabit a world of their own. Their ideas of the world, their perception of what is good or bad, right or wrong, happy or sad, all are far different and much more uncomplicated than those of adults. A children's play must be simple, direct, humorous enough to hold their attention, and always eye-catching. It also must be palatable for adults, so parents and teachers who accompany children will be able to sit back and enjoy the performances with the children.

All this is a prelude to the strong reception that "Once Upon a Clothesline" received in its initial performance last week end in Gate Theatre. The entire show bore the mark of excellence that usually accompanies the work of Prof. John H. Hepler, technical director of the University Theatre.

On Friday night, the children sat enthralled in the web of fantasy created on the stage. At one point in the production when a remark was directed to the children, they all shouted, producing a reaction that nobody seemed to have anticipated. In general, the production was played with the children in mind, but it also pleased the adults.

Dale Stephens, who played Mr. Cricket, was, in this reviewer's opinion, the most humorous character in the play. It might be said that she stole the show. With her gestures, expressions, voice quality, and especially her timing, Miss Stephens had the audience (all ages) laughing heartily; however, her performance was not ostentatious. It was right in key.

Other kudos in the acting end of the production must go to Sharon Luse, who played the Spider. Miss Luse had a perfect opportunity to scare the children out of their seats, but she kept her part toned down. The character was evil, but one always knew the good people would conquer the evil Spider.

In attempting to review this play, the reviewer has mentioned a few people in particular; however, every character without exception was excellent in his or her part. From Carol Huston, who played Mrs. Ant, to Sandy Habbitzel as Pinette and George Weiss as Mr. Grasshopper, the people were interesting and funny. The whole show had a sense of fun about it which can be attributed to the actors.

Prof. Hepler, the director, used

Music Clinic Draws High School Musicians

The fifth annual New Music Reading Clinic sponsored by the University bands will be held on campus Friday and Saturday.

The University band and 113-piece All-Ohio Select High School Band will perform during the two-day clinic.

The All-Ohio Band will consist of representatives from some 80 high schools in Ohio. Nominations from each high school were submitted to Roy J. Weger, director of University bands, who selected the representatives who will participate in this program.

Clinic participants will perform 1959 and 1960 band music publications supplied by 35 music publishers.

The high school band will perform at 1:30 and 7 p.m. Friday, and the University band at 3:30 and 8:30 p.m.

Saturday concerts will be given by the high school musicians at 8:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. The University group will perform at 10:30 a.m. and 3:30 p.m.

The Clinic will be directed by music department faculty members Roy J. Weger, director of University bands; Richard Ecker, assistant professor of music; and David S. Glasmire, instructor in music.

many devices in making the show enjoyable. One of the highlights of the production occurred when Pinno (Bill Melvin) was trying to drill his group of friends into some semblance of military order so they could successfully wrench Pinette from the clutches of the Spider. The timing was excellent, the movements were precise. Again, the capable hand of the director was in evidence.

The costumes were highly imaginative. Credit must go to the students of the cast and crew who designed them.

In all, "Once Upon a Clothesline" was an excellent production, one which young and old enjoyed. It will be enjoyed when the show goes on tour.

The high school musicians participating in the Clinic will be housed in the home of Bowling Green High School Band members.

The performances are open to the public without charge.

Clark To Judge HS Writing Contest

Dr. Jeff Clark, assistant professor of journalism, will serve as a judge for both the Quill and Scroll Annual Feature Writing contest and the American Newspaper Publishers Association writing contest this year.

For Quill and Scroll, an international honor society for high school journalists, Dr. Clark will choose the top 25 to 30 entries submitted by the March 1 deadline. As a judge for the Newspaper Publishers Association he will further break down the entries to select the top three.

The publishers' contest is held in conjunction with the Quill and Scroll event, making an entry in either contest an automatic entry in the other.

Winners of the Quill and Scroll contest will be announced in the spring edition of Quill and Scroll magazine.

Play Is Matinee Topic

A pre-production discussion of the next University Theatre major production, "Antigone," will be the topic at Matinee Hour at 3:30 p.m. today in the Ohio Suite of the Union.

The discussion will be led by Jim Rodgers Jr. and Ronald B. Van Lieu. Dr. Stanley Kahan, instructor in speech, will moderate.

First and foremost, there's the proud moment in Graduation Week when the gold bars of a Second Lieutenant are pinned on your Army uniform . . . and deep inside the warm sense of accomplishment at having made it.

There's immediate help in meeting expenses

. . . a subsistence allowance of $535 for the two-year advanced ROTC course. Uniforms and military textbooks paid for. $117 for your six-week summer camp training, plus travel allowance. And when you're commissioned, a $330 uniform allowance.

You discharge your military obligation with the traditional rank, pay, privileges and responsibilities of an officer in the United States Army.

And later, when you're starting your climb up the civilian ladder, advanced ROTC will still be paying off. Success in the executive areas of business and industry comes earlier and more substantially to the man who can lead. Few are born leaders; but leadership can be learned. And advanced ROTC is a great place to learn it.

Talk with the Professor of Military Science at your school. Learn more about advanced ROTC. Ask particularly about the ROTC course in Leadership, with its practical experience in command responsibilities.

ORIENTAL ART—"Two Thousand Years of Chinese Painting," an art exhibition, will be on display for a month in the promenade lounge of the Union. The reproductions give an accurate perspective of the different periods of Chinese art. The top painting is called "Jackdaws" from the Ch'ing dynasty and the bottom painting is "Family Portrait" from the Ming dynasty.

Promenade Features Chinese Art Exhibition

"Two Thousand Years of Chinese Painting," an art exhibition, is on display in the promenade lounge of the Union this month.

The exhibition is divided roughly into three main groups and includes examples of ancient painting dating from about 206 B.C. through the seventh century A.D.; medieval painting dating from about the seventh century through the fourteenth century; and the comparatively modern works of Ming and Ch'ing dynasties which extend to the beginning of the twentieth century. The reproductions give an accurate perspective of the different periods of Chinese art.

Such masters as Ku K'ai-chih, Wang Wei, Li Lung Mein, and other artists are represented in the exhibit.

Vadime Elisseeff, curator of the Musee Cernuschi, Paris, stated, "Despite the Western world's very great interest in it, Chinese painting may be said to be one of the least well known art forms in the world. The fragility of the material used is partly responsible for the rarity of old works, and misunderstanding accounts, to some extent, for our failure to recognize their worth."

Photographs of the reproductions are available on request. The address for ordering the reproductions may be obtained from the UAO office.

Careers Available In Social Security

The Social Security Administration again is seeking a limited number of outstanding college juniors who may be interested in federal government careers. Student assistants will be given summer appointments in S.S.A. offices in Ohio.

After assisting district office personnel through the summer, the students are expected to return to college in the fall to resume their education.

The positions with the S.S.A. pay an annual salary of $4,345. Successful completion of the federal service entrance examination is a pre-requisite. Complete information can be obtained by visiting the placement office, 315 B Administration Bldg.

Stanage Begins Cobus Series; Speaks On Rise, Fall Of Ethics

Recognizing that ethical practices must be applied to the business world of today, William F. Schmeltz, dean of the College of Business Administration, has organized a series of weekly programs on ethics for Cobus Hour. They began Feb. 15.

In the first program, Dr. Sherman M. Stanage, chairman of the philosophy department, spoke on "The Rise and Fall of Ethics."

In setting the stage for the talks to follow, Dr. Stanage told the audience about Western man's formulation and advancement of ethical systems, and his subsequent failure to grasp the meaning of ethical questions.

The word "ethics" is derived from the Greek word "ethos." Early in history, the ethos of man was his inner disposition, inner temper, inner character, and real inner nature of his self or humanness as a person.

"The tendencies toward creativity and self fulfillment in man's life have always offered the solutions, the form, and the system of ethics," stated Dr. Stanage. "The ethos of a man is both what he is and what he might become, and the separation and distinguishing of these facets of man's life have always been part and parcel of what the western world has called ethics."

From these basic principles, Western man began to seek means of finding the answer for a supremely good life, and to separate problems of the ethos as distinct from other kinds of study.

This quest for a scientific delimitation of the supremely good life has continued for 27 centuries. It was with the "volcanic eruption" of technological advances in the seventh century that systems of ethics began to fall.

"The soundest judgment which might be offered of twentieth century culture is that it is an age of no absolutes. The twentieth century is an age which is living through the final loss of its most cherished values, and which in no sense has learned to live within them in an uncertain future," said Dr. Stanage.

He gave as an example the common plight of the college student—the student really does not know where he can take his stand. "Since he is taught that he must have considerable data on hand before a judgment can be offered about anything, and is further taught that in matters concerning the subjective life of man there can be little or no data, he ends up doing little more than wagging his finger after the fashion of Heraclitus, the classic Greek philosopher of change."

In conclusion, Dr. Stanage said that man, in objectifying himself, is losing his sense of the ethos, and man in search of the ethos may be losing it precisely because of the way he thinks he is searching for it today.

The Rev. Loyal G. Bishop of St. Mark's Lutheran Church will speak at Cobus Hour at 3:30 p.m. tomorrow on "Foundation of Theological Ethics."

Dylan Thomas' Poems Books, Coffee Topic

The poems of Dylan Thomas were the topic of discussion at Thursday's meeting of Books and Coffee.

After listening to a recording of Thomas' poems, those attending discussed the pieces. Works considered were "Fern Hill," "Ceremony After a Fire Raid," "Ballad of a Long-Legged Bait," and "Do Not Go Gentle into that Good Night."

Topic for discussion at 3:30 p.m. Thursday is "De-mythologizing," which involves interpreting mythology and relating it to the Bible. Background information may be obtained at the Library.
